

Summary: Chris and I met this week and decided on the topic of the website. We have decided that we will make a video game database. We created a GitHub repository, along with NetBeans projects. Both of us can upload the commits to our own UVM websites, but Nick's will be the final version. GitHub will serve as the master copy.

Goals: Chris will make the storyboard for the website. Nick will work on the main structure for the homepage and the individual pages.

Problems: No real problems right now. We should have worked more this past week, and will have to put more work in this week.
